Buying Pepper Spray, Mace®, Sabre & Stun Guns Online

Buying non lethal self-defense products online can be convenient and affordable, but it's vital to ensure that you're doing business with a reputable company that sells quality products and cares about customer satisfaction. PepperSpray.com has provided hundreds of customers with the best inexpensive personal self-defense products since 1994, and we're proud of the large selection of items that are available for purchase on our website.

Our stun guns, pepper spray, Mace®, Sabre brand products, gels and foams are affordable, but NOT cheaply made. While other sites might offer promo-code or coupon discounts on wholesale defense products, we're confident that PepperSpray.com has the best products, service and prices online.

Women's self-defense safety products aren't the only types of non-lethal defense items that people order online. Many different types of people buy personal first defense products from stores, manufacturers, dealers and retailers across the country every day. Men, women, senior citizens, joggers, law enforcement officials, runners and even average homeowners are among the many shoppers who are interested in finding new self-defense products for sale.

Of course, it's important that you know the facts about how to use self-defense protection products safely before you get your hands on them. OC pepper spray, triple action spray, Mace®, Sabre products foggers and stun guns aren't like personal bodyguards that can differentiate between a victim and an attacker. You have to ensure that you're aware of the dangers, ingredients, side-effects, decontamination, treatment, antidotes and proper usage of every product you purchase. Before buying, be sure to look at any information, videos and reviews about your safety product. Remember that part of being "streetwise" is knowing the safety info and facts about your product as well as being aware of its effectiveness.

Stun guns and cs pepper spray paintballs may be able to protect you against robbery, assault and other crimes, but having a self-defense product in your pocket doesn't make the holder and instant criminal neutralizer. If you've never been sprayed by a stream of tear gas, capsaicin or red pepper capicum before, you might not realize how incapacitating and powerful they can be. Even if your pepper spray is disguised as a small mini key chain, ring, pen or pink lipstick tube, it is still one of the strongest (and hottest) deterrents that the law allows you to carry.

Of course, extra care needs to be taken when you are looking at high-voltage electric stun guns. While stun guns really work well and are legal to use in many states, don't be fooled by their compact form. Shooting a human with a stun gun gives them a zap of many thousands of volts, and since they are rechargeable, a can usually be used many times. Whether your stun gun is undisguised or disguised (as a flashlight, cell phone or baton, for example), you should make sure to keep it in a holster when not in use.
