

Pediatric Residency Program

Indiana University's Pediatric Residency Program welcomes you.

At IU, we are dedicated to providing you with exceptional training in pediatrics ranging from health and wellness to the most medically complex cases in an environment of family-centered care. As an Indiana University Pediatric resident, you will enjoy unparalleled exposure to the breadth and depth of pediatric care at Riley Hospital for Children at Indiana University Health. In addition, we have a strong balance with general and community pediatrics in our IU network to work with a diverse patient population in a variety of settings. The medical center campus is located in the heart of the active downtown Indianapolis area - an area accessed by the canal walk, Monon trail and monorail.

Indiana University's pediatric residency program offers exemplary training, a strong network of support, and unique opportunities to focus on your needs and interests. IU is a top-rated program and our faculty are some of the best in the country.

The faculty and residents at IU are committed to working with you to help you grow into an outstanding pediatrician with sophisticated clinical expertise. Our residents have individualized experiences with personal connections and meaningful mentorships. Graduates of our pediatric residency program advance to top careers in community practice, fellowships and research. IU is committed to research; our Morris Green Physician Scientist Program was created to identify and support pediatric residents and fellows who want to develop careers as pediatric researchers, physician-scientists, and future academic leaders.

Our faculty and staff look forward to welcoming you to our team at IU and Riley Children's Hospital.
