About Us

We are Special Learning. We are passionate about changing the lives of people with Autism and other special needs through our exceptional educational suite of solutions for the special needs community.

Our expertise in using leading edge technology platforms allows us to effectively deliver our educational products and services around the world without geographical limitations. Using technology we globally access and meet the needs of people in under-served markets.

We apply clinically proven ABA principles to everything that we create, so we can deliver a best in class suite of solutions that work to make lives better in the special needs community.

Special Learning's comprehensive line of teaching and training solutions, including digital teaching kits, training webcasts, mobile apps, teaching supports and virtual consulting services, inform, educate and empower parents, teachers and providers in implementing effective teaching and treatment practices for individuals with Autism and other developmental disabilities.

Karen Chung, CEO and founder

Karen Chung obtained her bachelor's degree in accounting from Northern Illinois University and master's degree in Business Management from Northwestern University. In 2010, she co-founded Special Learning, Inc., a company dedicated to becoming the global leader for autism, special needs and Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) solutions by leveraging technology as educational resources. As an entrepreneur and investor, Karen has had active involvement over the past 15 years in several businesses in diverse industries including executive search, investment banking, real estate development and high-end retail.

A native of South Korea, Karen immigrated with her family to the United States in 1975. She is an active member of the Kellogg Graduate School of Management and is a frequent guest speaker on the topics of entrepreneurship and private equity. She is also a founding member of a new graduate-level degree program focused on Women's Leadership at Benedictine University. Karen is the driving force and innovation behind Special Learning's mission to become the most comprehensive special needs provider in the world.
