

4SITE
by CORT®

Know if your office space is working for you

Make informed decisions, not instinctive ones

Taking information gathered by sensors placed throughout your office, 4SITE provides data on the utilization of offices, desks, and conference rooms.

A world of insight on one page

There are two main questions that are driving decisions about the workplace in today's environment; "Is the space right for my workforce now?" and just as important, "what type of space is needed for what comes next?" Pulling information together into one simple spreadsheet, the data provided by 4SITE offers the insight needed to make actionable decisions with clarity.

Peace of mind is good for business

Creating a working environment where employees can thrive means making decisions that factor in safety and well-being, affordability and efficiency. Having information on how space is being used can keep you from spending on space you don't need or aren't getting the most value from.

aren't getting the most value from.

